AN EGG

Is full of meat and nourishment, and is therefore highly esteemed as a food product. It is a blood producer, and good pure blood is essential to the preservation of the human body. An egg, therefore, bears to human vitality the same relation that flax seed bears to paint. The egg is a blood matter, while flax seed is a linseed oil producer. Pure linseed oil is the binder that holds paint to wood. Pure blood is the binder that preserves health to the human body. Paint is a wood preserver, and beautifier. Meat is a body preserver and health giving elixir. In painting, pure linseed oil is of first importance. You can't preserve paint by using adulterated linseed oil. We have exposed the workings of the adulterators of oil for eighteen months. We are working earnestly to protect the public from fraud, and are giving them value received in painters' materials. Next to pure linseed oil in importance in painting comes the pigment or lead. Champion Tinted Leads not only cover more surface than any other leads, but they absorb more linseed oil and therefore last longer and look better than any other leads sold in Atlanta. There is both wisdom and economy in noting these facts if you are going to paint. Also note the fact that we sell merchandise and not time and merchandise combined.

A PUBLIC SCHOOL.

But No Bond Election Is What West End Has.

SPECIAL MEETING OF THE COUNCIL.

The Bond Election Was Postponed Indefinitely—The Depressed Condition of the County the Reason.

A special meeting of the West End council was held yesterday morning and important action was taken.

The result of the meeting was that there will be no bond election and that the West End academy will be a free school for at least five months in every school year.

The object of the meeting yesterday morning was to consult in regard to the bond election. The question was discussed and resolved by Mr. W. I. Zachary as tending to show that it would be very difficult to place the bonds at anything like a fair price.

After some argument on both sides of the bond election question Councilman Zachary introduced the following resolution:

Resolved, That owing to the depressed condition of the county and the possible trouble there may be in placing any bonds, that this council deems it advisable to delay the election for bonds, and to hereby indefinitely postpone the election called for the 12th of June.

This resolution of Councilman Zachary was adopted by the unanimous vote of the council.

Mayor Neims presiding and Councilmen Hunnicutt, Bunker, Miller and Zachary being present, was evidently apparent to the council that the sentiment of the people was against the issuing of bonds and in accordance with the wishes of their constituents the council took the action it did.

Now it remains to be seen what West End will do for water. There is a strong sentiment abroad for annexation to Atlanta among those who were in favor of the bonds.

It is well understood by the citizens of the pretty little suburb that sooner or later they must have water and sewerage and there are only two ways to get them. The first way is by issuing bonds and this avenue has been practically closed up.

The second way is by annexation to Atlanta. "We must have water and sewerage soon," said Councilman Zachary to a constituent reporter, "and the result of the council action will soon become very unpalatable. There are several reasons which might be urged for an annexation with Atlanta, but I do not care to express myself as either favorable or unfavorable to the annexation into the city."

That question is for the citizens to decide for themselves.

In his conversation Mr. Zachary appeared to incline toward annexation, but he refused to give an expression of his personal feelings in the matter.

He spoke about the action of the council in making the West End academy a free school and said it was a commendable action.

Communication from President Burgess Smith, of the board of education of West End.

Now a Free School.

After the election on water bonds was postponed a communication from the president of the board of education of West End.

In his letter President Smith set forth that there has been a growing demand for a free school in West End, and while there are a few opposed to such action, the greater part of the community are in favor of it.

After a thorough discussion of the new departure the council adopted the following resolution, which was introduced by Councilman Hunnicutt:

Resolved, That this council has received the communication from the president of the board of education of West End, and it is the wish of the council to endorse the recommendation therein contained in making West End academy a free school, and it is the wish of the council to endorse the recommendation of the board of education of West End.

Teachers, that residents and graduates of West End academy when equally qualified for the same positions, and all teachers should reside in the city of West End, and members of the board of education are hereby directed to have this resolution submitted to the board of education for their consideration.

The resolution was adopted and the council adjourned to meet tomorrow night.

The town council, said Mr. Burgess Smith, president of the board of education, "after a conference and due consideration, determined to open the West End academy to the public."

September 1st as a free school and will continue the same as a free school for five months, at the end of which time, if the experiment is satisfactory, the remaining five months of the school year will also be taught free of tuition.

Two additional school rooms will be provided in the academy and also an auditorium where the entire school can unite daily in such exercises as may be deemed expedient for advancing the pupils in their studies.

"At the opening of the fall term there will be organized among the boys a debating society and probably two, to afford them opportunity for public speaking. This will give the boys an opportunity to acquire a knowledge of the English language, and readiness in debate so essential to success in public life and so useful in all departments of business life."

A PROSPEROUS INSTITUTION.

The Atlanta Trust and Banking Company Holds Its Annual Meeting.

The annual meeting of this bank was held the past week and the directors were appointed for the ensuing year: W. A. Hemphill, H. T. Luman, A. J. Shropshire, A. P. Morgan, J. Carroll Payne, Eugene Spalding, Frank Rice and A. Richardson. No better or more prosperous business men in our city than these.

The outlook of the bank is very flattering. The deposits have increased over last year, notwithstanding the hard times. The bank is steadily growing in popular favor, and its customers and patrons are of our best people. The bank has ample funds to take care of all of its customers. The officers make it a special point to have pleasant and amicable relations with all who deal with it. The bank's correspondents in the north and west are of the highest caliber and have had thus guaranteeing all the facilities needed in banking.

The business done is strictly a banking business, and the officers have, by fair dealing and honest management, to build up a business second to none.

The bank is on one of the most prominent corners in the center of the city, and is easy of access. The vault is spacious and equipped with the latest burglar proof time-lock safes; thus guaranteeing protection.

The directors at their meeting elected the following officers: W. A. Hemphill, president; A. J. Shropshire, vice president, and J. A. McCord, cashier.

The capital of the bank is $150,000, with $25,000 surplus.

The officers and directors especially request the patronage of the public, believing that it is greatly to the interest of Atlanta to make her banks strong and prosperous.

THE WAR IS ON,

And the Candidates for the Various City Offices

ARE WORKING HARD WITH THE MEMBERS

Of the General Council, Who Will Have the Voting to Do The Candidates Named.

The election of city officers by the city council takes place at the meeting of that body on the first Monday in July, which will be the 31st.

The fight is growing in intensity as the time of the election approaches, and the candidates are all getting in their best work now. For the next three weeks, nothing will be talked of at the city hall but the coming election, and the adherents of each candidate are particularly sanguine that their favorite is a sure winner.

The first official to be elected will be the city clerk. Mr. A. P. Woodward, the present incumbent, has filled the office for the past six years. As a city clerk, he has been a remarkable success. He has revolutionized the manner of conducting the office much to the benefit of the city and its people; he has systemized the methods of bookkeeping, and, where in former years all was chaos, now everything is orderly and complete system. Where formerly it was a difficult matter to find anything in the office, now it is the easiest thing in the world. His method of filing papers and records is second to none in the country, and the archives are kept in a systematic and business-like manner.

Everything is arranged in alphabetical order, and to find the record of any paper is only a matter of a second's work. In addition to this, Mr. Woodward has succeeded, for the first time in the history of Atlanta, in rendering the archives of the city absolutely safe from destruction by fire. His method of preserving them is entirely his own, and is acknowledged to be one of the best in use anywhere. He will have no opposition, and his election is a foregone conclusion.

The fight for the marshalship is growing hot. J. W. Loyd, the present incumbent, has held the office for a great number of years. He has made an excellent and efficient officer, and has commanded the esteem of all classes of people ever since he first took charge of the office. His opponent is Mr. J. J. Meador, formerly a member of the council from the second ward, and who was defeated in the race for sheriff at the election last fall. Mr. Meador has a large following of influential friends, and the contest is apt to be a hot one. In the event of his election, Mr. Meador will appoint John W. Humphries as his deputy.

The contest for the office of tax collector also promises to be a lively one. The candidates are Charles C. Maddox, the present collector, and J. R. Collins, who is at present in the marshal's office. Mr. Maddox is well equipped to make the fight for reelection, as his years of service in the office have made him familiar with every detail. He has served the people of Atlanta well and faithfully, and has a host of friends who want to see him retained.

He was, for several years, prior to his election as tax collector, private secretary to Senator Brown. He is one of the best-known men in the city, and feels confident of his ability to retain the office. Mr. Collins is also very well equipped to make a determined fight to win. His friends are working indefatigably, and it is thought to be an even chance, with no one in favor under a fair election.

There is a great deal of speculation being indulged in over the fight for city treasurer. The candidates are Mr. W. T. Wall, cashier of the Capital City National Bank, and Joseph T. Orme, cashier of the Lowry Banking Company. Mr. Wall is the present city treasurer, and has held the office for several years. He has made an exceptionally good official, and has shown a determination for another term. Both men are well known and well liked, and have hosts of friends. Both are expert accountants and excellent financiers, and are well equipped for the duties of the office. It is said that the council is evenly divided between them, and the mayor will have to cast the deciding vote.

It is in the fight for ward physicians that a vast amount of interest is centered. The speculation in these contests is not confined to the city hall alone, but extends throughout the city. The present incumbents are: First ward, Dr. C. C. Green; second ward, Dr. E. N. Goldsmith; third ward, Dr. W. D. Collier; fourth ward, Dr. G. W. Bishop; fifth ward, Dr. A. B. Johnson; sixth ward, Dr. L. O. Harris. All of the physicians are candidates for reelection, and each ward has its full quota of aspirants for the position. The fifth ward alone has already come to the front with no less than three candidates, and the fight has not yet fully begun. Before the election is held, the night will reach a decidedly interesting stage. Most of the present physicians are confident of being re-elected.

There is no contest for the office of chief of the fire department. Chief Collier has filled the office with a great deal of credit to himself and with material benefit to the city. No man is as familiar with the workings of this most important department of the city service, and he has done much to bring the department up to its present standard of excellence. He will have no opposition of any kind, and will be re-elected without a second's hesitation.

For city messenger, Mr. Z. B. Moon, the present incumbent, will go in without a contest. He has made a first-class officer in every respect, and no one will attempt to run against him. Mr. Moon is now completing his second term in the office, and there is no doubt of his being selected to serve for the next two years.

James A. Anderson will be re-elected city attorney without opposition. He was elected to the office to succeed Mayor Good, and has been a most successful attorney. He has made one of the most successful attorneys that Atlanta has ever had, and his deserved endorsement by his administration of the office. He will appoint Mr. Fulton Colville as his assistant. Mr. Colville has served the city faithfully, and has made an excellent assistant to the city attorney.

Messrs. C. B. Meador and T. J. Malone, the present tax assessors, have practically no opposition for reelection. Both are veterans in the city's service, and have filled the position for the entire community. Messrs. Meador and Malone are not worrying much, however, and feel confident of their retention.

There were four candidates in the field for city sexton, until a couple of days ago. They were: Charles D'Alvigny, the present incumbent; William T. Bonnell; Clayton and Jack Bagby. The appointment of Mr. Bagby as electric light inspector took him out of the race, but the other three remain. All are men of considerable standing, and are just finishing their first term. Mr. D'Alvigny is a confederate veteran, and is just finishing his first term. He has filled the office very creditably, and has a strong hold of being retained. Mr. Bonnell was formerly city sexton, but was beaten for reelection two years ago by Mr. D'Alvigny; he is at present one of the station house keepers. Mr. Clayton is one of the best-known young men about town, and has a great number of friends, who are working hard to secure the position for him.

Mr. R. M. Clayton has practically no opposition for reelection as city engineer. With the exception of a single term, Mr. Clayton has held the office of engineer for the past twenty years. He knows the city thoroughly every little detail connected with the office, and has no doubt of being retained. He is a good, faithful and efficient officer, and has served the city well. Some of the friends of Mr. Henry T. McDaniels are talking of entering him for the office, but it is not known that he would undertake to make the race.

ON THEIR BIKES

The Wheelmen of Atlanta Will Be Seen at Piedmont.

THE ENTRIES ARE MANY AND GOOD,

And the Prizes Are the Handsomest Offered in the South—The Programme as Arranged.

They will be exciting.

The bicycle race to be held at Piedmont park tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. The numerous entries and the value of the prizes warrant the prophecy.

Twenty-five of the best riders of the city will compete, and twenty prizes, far handsomer than the premiums of such contests usually are, have been offered.

The prominent feature of the race meet will be the ten mile handicap in which Walter Howard and Edward Durant will enter. They are not going to enter by themselves by any means, and will have to do some good sprinting to carry away Henry Cerman's gold medal, which is offered as the first prize.

Chauncey Foote, who accompanied the Chicago riders to the Windy City, will show the crowd in attendance what he can do against a trotting horse. One of Mr. Joe Kingsberry's fastest fillies will go him a half mile in three heats, and the man who went to the Columbia hotel in the Chicago trip ahead of Walter Howard and Ed Durant will have to get on his mettle to beat the horse, for she is a show-off.

The club championship race will be an exciting affair and will be a mile in length. It will settle the often mooted question of who's the best man in the Capital Cycle Club.

The races were gotten up for the purpose of furnishing the new clubhouse of the Capital Cycle Club at the corner of Wheat and Pryor streets. It is a neat little building and will make a home for the wheelmen fully equal to their present demands.

A feature of the clubhouse will be a shower bath, as well as a storage room for wheels, parlors, lounge room and other necessities of an athletic organization.

The following is a full list of the events as they come on the programme, together with the entries, prizes and donors:

Why Indian Springs Will Catch the Health and Pleasure Seekers This Season. The Reason Plain.

Indian Springs, Ga., June 10.—For the last several days the weather has been exceedingly ugly, raining a part of the time and in the intervals suggesting the need of overcoats. Therefore people who have arranged to spend the heated term at watering places have been tardy about leaving home.

But Indian Springs probably has suffered less from this drawback than any of the resorts. This is due primarily to their close proximity to the points of exodus, convenient railroad schedules and the fact that the water here is efficacious all the year round.

Indeed so many applications for board were received by Captain Collier last winter that he found it not only necessary but profitable to keep the Wigwam open all the season, and it will remain permanently open to guests.

The winter contingent, however, consists principally of invalids, who come here for the sole purpose of drinking the water direct from the springs.

At that season rheumatism gets in its worst work and the victims do not want to await the advent of warm weather before getting relief. So they come here. The water of Indian Springs acts powerfully on this disease, not only reducing the inflammation and swelling in a few days, but eliminating all traces of uric acid from the system. A long list of such cases could be enumerated in which patients secured speedy and permanent relief. Several evidences of the fact have been left here in the way of substantial crutches, whose mission ended soon after their owners arrived. In fact, lengths can be found to fit all states. Some of them have nice rubber tips on the ends and others are of the old home-made variety. But all of them supported their owners to the right place, notwithstanding.

The world's fair, which has kept the managers of summer resorts in a state of frenzied apprehension seems to be a taboo so far as operating against their interests is concerned.

The financial situation of the country is such that there is a general disposition to shun the shore in matters of money spending, and the percentage of people from this section of the country who will attend the fair will be very small in the general count. At any rate, the exodus in the direction of the Windy City will not begin until the cost of getting there and seeing the sights is reduced. This certainly will not occur during the heated term and if after that the resorts will not suffer.

For this reason Captain Collier, of the Wigwam, is looking the prospect serenely in the face and waiting for results that are already coming.

Those suffering from such diseases as rheumatism, bladder affections, kidney complaints and various liver troubles couldn't go to the fair if they wanted to. In addition to these the patronage of Indian Springs is composed of business and professional men and their families, who feel it just as necessary to come here every summer as to follow the directions of their physicians when ill. They are broken down and their nerves are unstrung from hard work.

Did they not do this an irrad would be opened for disease. So they come and bring the healthy members of their families along to lend the sunshine of home life to their surroundings.

This is what constitutes the exquisite social charm of the annual gatherings at Indian Springs. It is a community of families, as it were, whose interests are identical and whose common purpose is to "gather up the sunbeams."

"With the standards and by laws of home life are blended the conventional functions of the drawing room and other social amusements. It is an adjournment of the city to the country as it were.

In the meantime the crystal little spring whose water glides noiselessly from the foot of the Wigwam Heights, is gradually getting in its work. Five hundred visitors may charge upon it in a body and with pin cups one after another drink to satisfaction, and still it is ready for the next 500 or 1,000, with supply undiminished. You can dip it dry at one swoop but before you get the cup to your lips the little stone basin has refilled itself again.

The water does not effect all alike but the general result is the same. After drinking the first day one is uncertain what to think about it. On the second, however, there is a consciousness of feeling better, and on the third the system seems to be charged with some mysterious agency whose design is incomprehensible. Then you begin to get sleepy and the nights don't seem half long enough. While you are turning these thoughts over in your mind it occurs to you that you are hungry and that the Wigwam ought to have at least six meals a day, notwithstanding the fact that the three set before you embrace almost everything the market affords. After the lapse of a week you are prepared to look the world squarely in the face and dispute the theory that man can't live always.

Among the late arrivals is a splendid delegation from Atlanta, consisting of Mr. W. A. Speer and family, Mrs. John Silvey, Dr. E. L. Conally, Mr. Harry Duncan and Mr. Guy Thurman. Augusta is represented by Mr. W. A. Latimer and wife, and Jacksonville, Fla., by Mrs. Lawrence Haynes and her beautiful little boys. Mrs. Haynes is the daughter of Mrs. Leyden, of Atlanta, and is one of the most charming ladies here. Macon's colony is rather small yet, but it is composed of such delightful people as Mrs. A. O. Bacon, Mr. D. B. Woodruff, Miss Mattie Lee Woodruff and Mr. Bridges Smith. Mr. G. H. Tunnell, of Madison, and Mr. J. E. Wooten, of Eastman, are also here. All of the above are stopping at the Wigwam. Colonel Bridges Smith, the ex-newspaper man, is here convalescing from a recent severe attack of fever. It will be remembered that he has forewarned journalism and is now drawing the princely salary and perquisites of the city clerkship of Macon. This explains why he can afford the luxury of a good long spell with a recuperating aftermath at Indian Springs. Mr. J. E. Wooten, the brilliant young lawyer at Eastman, has also been on the sick list and is here to woo back the rose tints of health.

The service of the Wigwam is the toast of all the guests. Captain Collier is a prize among entertainers and his young assistant, Shipie Smith, also has a warm place in the hearts of all who stop at the Wigwam. He is an adonis just sprouting a mustache, but his conquests have already begun and he will gracefully assume a merited place in the popular swim.

SARGE PLUNKETT.

A Terrible Storm Slips Up on the Old Man.

CAUGHT IN THE WHIRL OF THE WIND.

A Night of Horror, and How It Was Passed at Plunkett's.

Written for "The Constitution."

I have seen sights and felt feelings but I never saw anything like a cyclone before nor never felt anything like the feelings they bring.

Along in the night of Sunday night I was waked up by the old man hunching me in the back with his elbow in my very mild manner. I had resolved to lay still and let her hunch till she wore her arm out, for I thought she wanted a fire kindled, when a loud clap of thunder away in the northwest was answered by just as deep a roll from the south, which at once lived the old lady up, and she added kicks and shakes along with the elbow persuasion.

Another clap of thunder and her feet played like the sticks of a little drum on my poor old body everywhere from the sole of my feet to about the waistband of my pants, while her hands kept time by a general scramble with the rest of my feeble frame, especially my hair.

"What do you want?" I yelled, when I saw she was desperately in earnest.

Before she could answer again the thunders rolled, and deeper than before and much nearer. She lit out of bed and from the door I heard her scream:

"Such clouds! Such clouds!"

I thought by this time that it was well enough for me to get a move on myself, for the lightnings flashed and the thunders rolled till it seemed a great battle of mighty clouds advancing to grapple each other. The one from the northwest seemed to be trying old Sherman's plan of getting around the one from the south, when suddenly the southern cloud changed its direction and went rolling and tumbling to the northeast.

I saw that the monsters were bound to cross each other's path somewhere and I was sure there would be a shock when they came together. I arose from bed with an air of not being at all scared, to run against the old man who was in a fidget trying to get her homespun frock over her head. I was moving by this time; I didn't have no time to kindle a light nor help her—

I wanted my pants and wanted 'em bad, for by this time I was certain that a powerful storm was coming. I got a-hold of my pants after skinning my shins over three or four chairs, but I couldn't get into them to save my life.

I was right smart on the fidgety order myself by this time, and slapped my right foot into the left leg of the pantaloons, and as I tried to stand on one foot to pull them off a sharp clap of thunder threw me off my balance and I fell flat on the floor in a tangled condition, with my breeches and some chairs. I kicked a-loose in a heap shorter time than it takes me to tell it, and pants or no pants, the mules must be got out from among the old trees of the pasture.

The mules had sniffed the danger, it seemed, and met me a short distance from the lot gate. I got the bride on the "big mule," as we call him, but I hardly know how I did it, for by this time the storm was upon us.

The mighty clouds had come together with a far that shook the earth. Boards were flying and timber was falling; whole panels of fencing were in the air, and houses screamed as they were wrenched from their foundations, and hay and shucks blinded the elements.

I think "the big mule" had "been there" before, for he stiffened himself with all his might, with tail to the storm. I held to the bridle like grim death as the storm lifted me from my feet and stretched me out, waving like a string, from the end of the bridle reins. Hold "big mule," hold bridle and grip! was my prayer, as I whirled like a cylinder or popped like a whip.

In an instant the whole thing was over, and the clouds went rumbling, tumbling, like many mountains of seething blackness. Great waves collided with a rebound, to meet in a moment again with gathered power. "You shall not cross my path," seemed to say one to the other, as they would come together in a roll of blackness and run side by side in zigzag curves as one or the other seemed the most powerful. As I watched these clouds I lay upon the ground at the feet of the "big mule."

The animal had relaxed his strain and looked down on me as if he pitied my frazzled condition, but I knew that the pity of the average Georgia mule would not do to risk myself in that position very long upon, so I gathered myself together as well as I could and went stumbling and scrambling to find the old man. The storm had not touched the dwelling, and I soon had all the comfort that could be given me by a free use of camphor, "spirits" and kind sympathy—principally "spirits"—for a bright light blazed in the fireplace and we were ready to laugh at our antics or cry in gratitude for the mercy shown us.

I have not a word to say about our damage. We fared so much better than many of our neighbors that I am content.

Mr. Elijah Webb, the great old hardshell patriarch, living on a place settled a hundred years ago, with houses built in the strong way of those days, had all his outhouses swept away. The storm handled the big hewed logs as if they had been straws, and scattered them to the four winds. But he, too, is thankful, for none of his folks were injured and none of his stock hurt. Just a little further on was where the greatest cruelties began. Mr. Weaver lost everything, and all of his family were mangled and bruised. His dwelling, with every vestige of wearing apparel, furniture and crockery, was carried off. His outhouses, fences and growing crop were torn away. The corn was twisted from its place and the field left bare.

I mention Mr. Webb and Mr. Weaver because they were my near neighbors and the greatest sufferers in my settlement. Mr. Webb is over eighty years old and has preached at a little hardshell church near his home for forty years, and was never known to ask for a cent in the way of pay. Mr. Weaver was a confederate soldier, and lost his right leg at the battle of Franklin, Tenn. In this storm his wooden leg was carried away, while he lay pinned down by fallen rubbish. He was badly hurt and some of his children are fatally so, the doctors say. This is written without their knowledge; but if every person who reads "Plunkett" this week would send just one dime to these two sufferers it would make a handsome sum to their relief. I would suggest that your dimes be sent to Mr. R. A. Hemphill, Constitution office, who, I am sure, will see to its getting to its right destination, and he could hold them until all got in and then turn it over in bulk. I want these dimes to come from the Rio Grande to the Potomac, and all real good yankees can send some—if they choose.

Of course our settlement is wild this week on storm talk. Many stories are told; some humorous, some pathetic and some of miraculous escapes. In the case of Mr. Weaver, a little son with skull crushed, lay all night in reach of his mother, but she could not help him. The agony of that poor mother can be better imagined than described. The dumb brutes seem to know that something terrible is coming upon them as these clouds approach, and are most pitiful as they tremble with fear after they are over. There should be no other thought than pity for everything that is caught in these storms; but one will smile at the capers cut and the feelings had. I am going up to Atlanta and get some of the firemen to let me have a pair of them pants that they jump into out of bed. No storm shall ever slip up and catch me fudging at my pants legs like I did the other night.

Nothing but being awake in a burning building can come any ways nigh being as demoralizing as these storms. You can't find a match; you tumble over chairs and run against tables; get your pants on wrong side in front, if you wear pants, and if you wear dresses you can't get your head through the right place, and there is tanglement and distress. These things may seem foolish to folks who have never been slipped up on by these storms, but wait, you may think different some day. And the children, they are the greatest source of anxiety at such a time. If you get them awake you can't hold them together. The little things get wild, and but for special providence they would all be killed.

These "close calls" make a fellow feel different to what he did. I have mended my deportment—would hardly take a little "spirits" "in case of sickness," and I have resolved that the little time I have left me shall be spent in making amends for the sins of a long life, all of which passed before me like a panorama, as I whirled from the end of the "big mule's" bridle rein. In the morning after breakfast, I went in and set down by the old man. I drew my chair close up to her and held out my hand. She thought I had a splinter in my finger that I wanted out, but not so; I was seeking a revival of love; I wanted to court her again as I did in our young days, and I wanted to ask her pardon for the carelessness I have shown her since she was all my own.

We talked over the high spirits and happy feelings we started out with and made new pledges and sealed them with a kiss that smacked like the kisses of long, long years ago. I don't know how it will be when our scare is well over; but I am sorry now that I can't call back the years wherein I have been so undemonstrative of an affection so much deserved. Younger husbands and wives should profit by these remarks, and if they do I shall feel satisfied.

I hate war mighty bad, but I will take a slice of it rather than a cyclone in the night time.

SARGE PLUNKETT.

P. S.—To those sending aid to the two sufferers I will send, if they desire, a mighty pretty picture—a picture of myself—upon receiving address with two-cent stamp. Send donations as above suggested.

Steve Brodie's Latest Charity.

From a New York Letter.

Steve Brodie, the New York high jumper, has evolved a new idea. He has purchased 200 serviceable umbrellas, which, properly fitted, are to be loaned to shanties caught down in a storm and returned when the rain is over. Steve says, in his simple way, "If I lose de gimme wet now it's de look out for me. I lose de gimme I'm soaked. When dat Jupiter Pluvius chases his water 'can' can't dumber kin call and I'll lend 'em. De charity blokes ain't in it. I kin razzem dem all."

Julius Verne Is Not a P. S.

From a Philadelphia Letter.

Captain Clipperton, British consul at Philadelphia, and an old friend of Julius Verne, says there is no foundation for a recently published story that Verne is an assumed name, and that the novelist is Eugene Weyss, an old man of Nantes family, and the name has been a respected one for generations.

JUROR AND LAWYER.

Where Should the Improvement Be Begun?

A VARIETY OF OPINIONS EXPRESSED.

Intelligent Men Always Stricken from the List—The More Ignorant the Jury the Better for the Damage Suit Plaintiff.

What can be done to improve our jury system?

Does it need improvement at all?

These questions were quite generally asked yesterday, and there were not a few who declared that the jury system as it is, is the best of the men who have been admitted to the bar.

In other words it is the bar that should be purged.

"For ten years," said a lawyer of national reputation, "I have been convinced of the fact that the bar should be purged of those men whose idea of the profession rises no higher than the stirring up of strife against those who have money."

English said the other day that their idea seemed to be to get money from those who have it in order to give it to those who have none, I was struck with shame for my profession, to think that it was being given character by those men who hire bailiffs to instigate suits. These men are the worst disturbers of the public peace, and the worst enemies of any community, which may be cursed by their presence. While the representatives of every other interest in the city are devising means to build up the trade of the city, these men are racking their brains to get up schemes by which every man in the city may be forced into liquidation. No, sir," he said, emphatically, "it is the bar that should be improved. A really high-minded lawyer would scorn the possession of money won through the wreck of the business interests of their neighbors."

Business Men Always Rejected.

Mr. Pappenhimer, who raised the question in the late citizens' meeting, speaking yesterday, said:

"I see an effort is being made to throw the blame of incompetent juries off on the business men themselves. Now what are the facts? I, myself, have been summoned on the jury quite frequently. Every time, almost, I have been stricken. It is the bar that should be improved. A really high-minded lawyer would scorn the possession of money won through the wreck of the business interests of their neighbors."

Mr. Pappenhimer, who raised the question in the late citizens' meeting, speaking yesterday, said:

were open, his liquid notes were heard afar, and often there came from a neighboring hill the answering song of one of his kind at liberty. He sang at his best when he was young. He was greatly attached to his mistress, but did not wish her to touch him. As she was attending to her household duties his eyes followed her every movement. His long life proved that he had been well cared for.

His food was changed every other day. Corn meal and chili mixed with water was followed by crackers and sweet milk. Occasionally he received a boiled egg yolk. He liked all kinds of green fruit. Of vegetables, tomatoes, lettuce, peppergrass and parsley were his favorites, and grasshoppers and flies were always enjoyed.

On fine days he was hung out in the sun, but as he had been repeatedly tried to kill him he never was exposed unless some person was near. He had a bath three times a week, and his cage, which was large, was kept scrupulously clean. He never had any sickness and died peacefully of old age. In his wild state he probably would not have lived over three or four years.

A Cold Climate and a Long Life.

From The St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

"Cold climates are always productive of a vigorous annual existence," said Professor Morton Bidwell, who is located temporarily at the Lihdel. "I know this to be fact from recent studies that I have made of various climatic conditions and their effect."

Now I have found that the life of a people living in a tropical climate is comparatively short. Not only their physical life, but their life as a nation is affected by this curious law. In evidence of this latter assertion I can point to all the short-lived governments that have arisen and fallen in the heated zones of this new continent. Everybody is aware of the constant revolutions and uprisings in Mexico, Central America and the South American republics. Whereas, North America, throughout the temperate regions has remained for a hundred years but little disturbed. Africa is a constant battle ground for the blacks and southern Asia and southern Europe have ever been the scene of internecine conflicts. On the other hand Russia has remained undisturbed for centuries, the people being apparently calmed by the cool climatic conditions. So, too, with Sweden and Norway, Denmark and the North German provinces. These nations as individuals are pliant. They are not easily moved to resentment except by the grossest insult. So it happens that the governments have lived on for centuries, their kings tracing their ancestry back through the ages until they lose their record in the barbaric period of the Roman domination. The Scandinavians (which term comprises as a type-name most of the inhabitants of northern Europe) are long-lived, many of them reaching the extreme old age of 115 years. The Scandinavian records are full of the names of men who lived to exceeding old age, while the remarkable names of the southern nations are always coupled with the statement of an early death."

DOWN WITH IT.

The Opium Pipe Will Not Be Tolerated in This City.

PHYSICIANS SAY IT IS SURELY FATAL

Atlanta Cannot Afford to Have It Fastened Upon Her.—Dr. T. S. Powell, of the Southern Medical College, Talks.

Is it possible that Atlanta is going to acquire the opium habit?

Unless the evil is corrected at the start—destroyed, as it were, in the germ—there is no telling the direful consequences which will result from the disclosures of last Thursday.

This oriental habit, which is one of the most blasting known to civilization, has been discovered in this city.

The announcement which appeared in yesterday's Constitution created a stir of excitement, which grew into something like alarm as the horrors of the opium habit were magnified under the fears of those who discussed it.

The growth of the Chinese colony in this city has been quite rapid for the last few years, and today there are perhaps as many as a hundred Mongolians in Atlanta.

Nearly all of them are engaged in the laundry business, and, strange to say, the greater number of their establishments are underground. That is to say, in order to reach the level of their dens, it is necessary to descend a flight of stairs below the sidewalk.

They are partial to houses, and never engage apartments above ground if they can get them below the street.

In these subterranean haunts, it is possible for them to carry on their nefarious habits and the practice of their immoral way of living without attracting the gaze or even exciting the curiosity of the Christian passers-by.

The fact that two dens have been discovered and the nurseries of the opium habit brought to light, induces the belief that many other places of the kind may exist.

There should be a thorough investigation on the part of the city government," said a well-known citizen yesterday, "and every Chinese den in the city should be visited. We have enough evils of home-culture without importing this article of foreign derivation. I am in favor of a careful inspection."

The prevalence of the opium habit on the Pacific coast exerted a most demoralizing influence among the native born citizens of that infected area of the continent.

Many of the young boys acquired the habit, and yielded to the fascination of the pipe until its fatal aroma impaired their minds and completely destroyed their vitality.

If the habit acquires a foothold in Atlanta, there are many who will, no doubt, for the sake of gratifying their curiosity and to ascertain whether or not there is any truth in the statement that it causes the imagination to become more active, exciting the most delightful visions, who will be induced to take a puff, and thus make themselves victims of the fatal charm.

This is the danger to be incurred by attempting to carry on the habit, and the city officials are confronted with a solemn duty in the obligation which involves upon them to spy out the hidden places of this iniquitous habit.

Dr. Powell Talks.

Dr. Thomas S. Powell, the president of the Southern medical college, was seen yesterday afternoon in regard to the discovery of the opium joints in this city.

"The opium habit," said Dr. Powell, "is one of the most harmful in the world. It is closely allied to paganism, and calls for the heartiest denunciation of this Christian community. It has tainted the atmosphere of the Pacific coast to such an extent that a hundred years will not be sufficient to eradicate the infection. The habit is calculated to stupefy the mind, to impair the morals and to bring about a total and irreparable wreck of the man."

"What remedy would you suggest, or, rather, what steps would you take in order to destroy the habit?" the question was asked.

"Why, the city council should look into the matter without a moment's delay. The city should be carefully inspected, and every subterranean channel occupied by these Chinamen should be explored. The offenders, who know it to be a crime by reason of the secrecy with which they practice it, should be brought to justice and punished as criminals against the health and morality of the community. Too much vigilance cannot be exercised, and my advice, since you have sought it, is to lose no time in making a thorough examination of the city."

Dr. Powell is one of the most eminent practitioners in the south, and his words will, no doubt, have proper weight with the authorities.

COLUMBIA HOTEL.

Corner 31st and State Streets, Chicago, Is Managed by Mr. J. C. S. Timberlake.

This hotel is one of the finest hotels in Chicago. It is conducted by Mr. J. C. S. Timberlake and Mr. Holzapple.

Everybody in the south knows who Mr. Timberlake is. He conducted Tate Spring, the Cliff house at Tallulah Falls; New Holland Springs and other attractive summer resorts, and now that he is so happily located in Chicago his numerous friends throughout the south will no doubt patronize the Columbia, corner Thirty-first and State streets.

There are several Columbia hotels in Chicago, but there is only one first-class one, and that is at the corner of Thirty-first and State streets. This you will do well to remember, as, perhaps, some house with a dozen rooms or so calling itself a Columbia house might solicit your patronage and take you off on some back street where there are no conveniences at all. The Columbia hotel, corner Thirty-first and State streets, is one of the most convenient hotels in the city for reaching the fairground. Write to Mr. J. C. S. Timberlake, corner Thirty-first and State streets, and ask him for specific directions and terms. He will accommodate you. You know he is an accommodating man.

TWENTY PAGES.

ATLANTA, GA., June 11, 1893.

Light for a Savannah Goldbug.
 In addressing ourselves seriously to the merchants and business men of Georgia we took occasion to set forth the disadvantages under which the farmers of the south were placed by the demonetization of silver. We called attention to the fact that the demonetization of silver here, compelled the cotton-producers and wheat growers of this country to pay a bounty to the Indian farmers equal to the difference between the value of the rupee in India and the market price of silver here. We set forth the facts specifically, and they have drawn this comment from The Savannah News, to which we invite the attention of our readers:

Perhaps the reason business men are not aroused by The Constitution's statements in respect to silver is that they are not yet satisfied that those statements are altogether correct—particularly those relating to the Indian rupee. They are, however, about the sharpest traders in the world, do not buy silver at its present low price, have it coined into rupees, which, The Constitution says, have not depreciated, and thus grow enormously rich.

From the best information we can obtain, and it is excellent, the face value of a rupee in our money is about 45 cents and its purchasing power and its power to pay debts is between 32 and 33 cents. This is very different from The Constitution's statement. If we are wrong, The Constitution will, of course, set us right by presenting unquestionable authority for its statement. There is another statement of The Constitution that is worth noting. It is that English traders can get $1 worth of Indian cotton for 64 cents' worth of silver. Does The Constitution mean cotton worth $1 in depreciated rupees, or gold? The inference is that it means gold. If it does not mean that there is no point in its statement. But is The Constitution that 64 cents in silver will buy a gold dollar's worth of cotton in India? Perhaps, on second thought, it will not be quite so sure.

The truth is, taking into account the grades and qualities of the Indian product the same prices are paid for Indian cotton as for cotton grown in this country. The prices are made in Europe on a gold basis. Silver cuts very little, if any, figure in the transaction. The Constitution says that "the south is paying a bounty to Indian producers." If that is so it can be shown to be so. It would be interesting to have it shown.

We propose to make the fact so clear that The Savannah News will not permit its excellent authority to come from behind the scenes. The first authority we shall quote is Daniel Manning, Mr. Cleveland's first secretary of the treasury, who, in his second annual report (1886) made this statement:

"It is a direct consequence of the monetary dislocation that wheat of India, which fetches 3 rupees per quintal four years ago, and there fetches 3 rupees per quintal today, can be sold in London for as little as the gold price of 3 rupees today, a fall of 25 per cent. This lowered price of wheat in London has had to be met by a lowered price of our surplus wheat determines the price of the whole wheat crop of the United States, so that the monetary dislocation has already cost our farming population, who number nearly one-half the total population of the United States, an almost incalculable sum, a loss of millions upon millions of dollars every year."

"Monetary dislocation" was Mr. Manning's phrase for the demonetization of silver. The losses he deplored have grown greater and greater as the gold price of silver has fallen, and the loss of our farmers in both wheat and cotton has swelled into billions of dollars. In one of Beerbohm's trade list issues of last year is to be found a confirmation. Beerbohm is lately dead, but any grain merchant of Savannah will tell The News that he was the accepted authority and statistician of the British grain trade. In the trade list referred to, he says:

The material decline in the price of silver, and in the rupee exchange (in London) has naturally facilitated shipments considerably. . . . Indian wheat can be sent to this country for about 2 shillings per quarter less than at this time, leaving the Indian producer the same net result. The Savannah News will observe that this is evidence not only of the effect of demonetization on the American farmer, but of the unchanged value of the rupee. A decrease of 8 cents a bushel in the price of wheat in London, says Beerbohm, "leaves the Indian producer the same net result." The result is precisely the same with respect to cotton. Sir Robert N. Fowler, M.P., the London banker and ex-lord mayor of London, is on record as boasting that "the effect of the depreciation of silver must finally be the ruin of the wheat and cotton industries of America, and be the development of India as the chief wheat and cotton exporter of the world."

This is the reason; if our contemporary will pardon the momentary digression, why Mr. Ernest Seyd, the agent of the Bank of England, framed the act of demonetization of 1873, which passed a Congress in which but two men—John Sherman and Hooper, of Massachusetts—understood its purport.

Moreton Fewen, the well-known English financier, in a recent article, says: "In this consideration we have to guide us all the evidence collected by the two royal commissions in England, as also, the evidence of independent inquiries in India, so that today the fact that the value of the rupee at its home in India, has not at all diminished during the last fifteen years, may be accepted as demonstrated. The meaning of this is that an ounce of silver—say three rupees—will buy as much produce or labor in all the up-country markets of India as it ever did."

In The Forum for January, 1893, Hon. Henry Hicks Gibbs, ex-governor of the Bank of England, showing that silver would not be "dumped" here in case of free coinage, has this illuminating remark: "Why should the Indian, whose rupee, though worth less gold than it was, buy him as much of the necessities of life as it used to do, spend 3 per cent in getting it melted and turned into dollars?"

We refer The News to Pedda's statistics prepared for the parliamentary commission, and to Mitchell's copyrighted tabular reports from all the departments of India. We refer it to any prominent cotton exporter in Savannah who has looked far enough into his business to understand the effect of Indian competition.

With respect to the proposed currency changes in Europe, the causal reference of The News to our editorial article of last Sunday enables us to correct a mistake glaring enough to correct itself. Referring to the proposition of the goldstandard to take the American prop from under silver, we said: "The result has been already foreseen by England, and arrangements are going forward to demonetize silver in India and remonetize gold." Here the credit was omitted. It should have read: "The result has been foreseen already by England, and according to the monetary arrangements are going forward to demonetize silver in India." We were taking an argument of the goldstandard and throwing it against them.

As a matter of course there is no movement looking to the demonetization of silver in India, but there is a movement inaugurated by the official class, which draws its salaries in India and spends it in England, looking to the temporary closing of the mints to free coinage. But England is the government of India, and the free coinage of silver there will not be suspended—at least not while the profits to British traders are so enormous and the bonus to Indian cotton and wheat production so stimulating.

The News says it must seem strange to business men "that the Indian merchants, who are about the sharpest traders in the world, do not buy silver at its present low price, have it coined into rupees, which, The Constitution says, have not depreciated, and thus grow enormously rich." Well, our business men are not silly. They know that India is selling every rupee's worth of her surplus products that she can rake and scrape together for our depreciated silver. They know that India is taking all the silver she can pay for in her produce—cotton, wheat, jute, indigo and other stuff. They know that the gold and silver that go there never come out again. But if they know no more about these matters than The Savannah News seems to know, they would not undertake to discuss the matter.

The News says it has excellent "information" that the rupee has depreciated. Will it give us the information in detail and the authority for it? If it is to engage in the business of goldbuggery it should be prepared to go to the bottom of the question.

The Georgia Bar Association.
 The annual meeting of the Georgia Bar Association, at Rome, July 5th, will be an enjoyable occasion.

The association is now eleven years old. It was organized to cultivate social and fraternal feelings among the lawyers, elevate the standard of ethics in the profession, and secure such reforms of remedial procedure as will expedite justice. In carrying out these objects the association has met with gratifying success, and the sentiment of the bar is making it more difficult every year for unworthy practitioners to hold their own.

At the Rome meeting papers will be read on "Law and Electricity," "The Nicaragua Canal and Its Legal Relations," and "The Future of Women at the Bar," by Judge Bleckley. There will be informal discussions of other questions, and a banquet on the 6th. The programme will be found in another column.

Too Much Idle Gossip.

Within the past two or three months Atlanta has had several sensations, and it is to be feared that they have exercised a very unwholesome influence upon the public mind.

The excitable and thoughtless among our people have found too much time for idle gossip, and when a solid basis of fact was wanting, their imaginations have been drawn upon to supply the deficiency. In other cases, opinions and guesses picked up at random on the street corners have been circulated all along the line, until they have developed into symmetrical stories with an exactness of detail that would astound the persons whose light talk formed the original groundwork of these scandalous narratives.

It reminds one of the old story of the three black crows. The great evil of mischievous gossip is its tendency to increase whenever it is indulged in. Like a rolling ball of snow it grows larger as it runs its course. The evil seems to be infectious. It pervades the air, and people lay aside the serious business of the hour to discuss the affairs of their neighbors.

Naturally, exaggerated hints of this state of affairs get into the outside newspapers, and people at a distance wonder what is the matter with Atlanta. The fact is, there is nothing the matter, except the wagging of too many reckless tongues. There is nothing in our business and social circles that need shun the light of day—nothing that need fear comparison with the status of other cities. Frequently, the sensational stories started here are due to the frankness with which our people speak of their private matters. Their statements are distorted and embellished by others who are not familiar with the situation, and the truth is lost sight of. Some of the persons who make it their business to engage in this exchange of scandalous words, no doubt, be in the same boat with their victims if certain incidents in their own lives were freely handled by irresponsible parties not too scrupulous about the facts.

Let us relegate this nuisance of evil speaking to the slums or to the dead crossroads villages where there is nothing else to engage the attention or arouse the ambition of the loungers who sit all day in the shade playing checkers. It is unworthy of a great and growing city. There is everything here to inspire us to go on in our work of building the community and each individual in it. This is better than tearing down public and private enterprises, interests and reputations. If tongues must wag, let them say the best that can be said of Atlanta and her people. If they can say nothing good, let them hold their peace!

Tax Their Incomes!

The opponents of an income tax must be aware that, when we cut down the tariff to a free trade basis, we must levy a new tax to raise the revenue that will be needed for the expenses of the government. Yet they suggest nothing. They simply protest against a tax on incomes, and fail to come forward with a substitute.

The St. Louis Republic in advocating this tax says:

It would be very interesting to know how many millionaires there are in the country, but there are no accurate statistics on the subject. It is certain, however, that there are enough to be worth while to pay all the military expenses of the government, including the expense of building a formidable navy and of pensions. In a speech in the last congress, Congressman Wilke, of Illinois, quoted the following estimate of the number of very wealthy people in the country and of their holdings:

200 persons at $20,000,000 each.	$4,000,000,000
400 persons at $10,000,000 each.	4,000,000,000
1,000 persons at $5,000,000 each.	5,000,000,000
2,000 persons at $2,500,000 each.	5,000,000,000
6,000 persons at $1,000,000 each.	6,000,000,000
15,000 persons at $500,000 each.	7,500,000,000
20,000 persons at $300,000 each.	6,000,000,000
In the hands of 25,000 people who constitute the plutocracy of the country. The estimate gives to this small number of persons possession of over half the wealth, real and personal, of the entire country of 65,000,000 people. And yet Mr. Sherman, the author of the estimate, says it is "far below the actual truth."

The owners of this enormous wealth should bear their proportionate share of the public burden. They got more benefits under the government than the masses enjoy, and their fortunes were in the main built up by the war and by war measures. Even if we are to view the income tax as a war tax it is proper that it should be imposed on this class of citizens to pay our pension bill and keep up the army and navy. There is certainly more justice in taxing people who are able to pay than in taxing the toilers who are hardly able to earn a living. If the poor man's cottage must be taxed, why not tax the income of a citizen who is worth a million dollars in bonds?

Be Patient.

Two correspondents—one of them a prominent tariff reformer—have recently called our attention to the statement attributed to Mr. Cleveland by an Associated Press reporter to the effect that the Sherman law is now the only menace to the prosperity of the people.

The alarm expressed by one of our correspondents is groundless. In the first place, we have no idea that the president made the statement in the shape and with the emphasis attributed to him by the press reporter. In the second place, it would be preposterous to suppose, even if the statement had been made just as it is printed, that Mr. Cleveland has ceased to regard the McKinley law and the whole republican scheme of protection as a menace to the prosperity of the people.

The president knows now, just as well as he knew eight years ago, that the people of the country cannot be prosperous under the McKinley law or under any other system of high republican protection, and at the proper time he will make his knowledge as well as his intentions manifest.

While it is true that an extra session of congress should have been called in March, and certainly not later than the present month, it is equally true that the country is rocking along very comfortably. The fifth year who are inclined to be impatient should sit down and think the matter over, and not allow their irritation to bubble over in the newspapers. We are living in the electric age. It is true, but great reforms go on as slowly as they ever did, and they cannot be hurried.

Neither the democratic party nor Mr. Cleveland can afford to be judged by the antics of a few newspapers that are trying to attract attention by flouting the democratic platform and giving it a new meaning under the pretense that they represent the president. They will never be heard from when the democratic press once begins serious operations.

AN INCOME TAX.
 The platform is all right, congress is all right, and Mr. Cleveland is all right. The democratic pledges will be redeemed.

Neither John Sherman nor Quay attended the anti-trust convention.

The New York Morning Advertiser is two years old and very lively, but it is still too young to know that the cruel war is over.

The St. Louis Republican is of the opinion that a John Sherman democrat cannot defeat William McKinley in Ohio. That is true, but a free coinage democrat can wipe the earth with him.

Panics, semi-panics and seasons of stringency affect Atlanta less than any other community in the country. The reason is that Atlanta's energies are recuperative. There is no limit to them.

Mr. Dana is mistaken in supposing that the democratic platform means that sugar, tea and coffee will be taxed. The poor man's breakfast table must be free from taxation. The revenue that could be raised from these articles could be raised from an income tax. We may mention in passing that editors who big incomes will not be permitted to escape.

A SUNDAY SYMPHONY.

An Old Battlefield.

The softest whisperings of the scented south. And rust and roses in the cannon's mouth. And where the thunders of the fight were born. The wind's sweet tear in the tinkling corn.

With song of larks, low-linging in the loam. And blue skies bending over love and home. But still the thought: Somewhere—upon the hills. Or where the vales ring with the whippoor-wills.

Sad, wistful eyes, and broken hearts that beat For the loved sound of unretracing feet;

And when the oaks their leafy banners wave, Dream of the battle and an unmarked grave! —FRANK L. STANTON.

The Dalton Argus will appear as a daily newspaper three days next week. But with such an excellent newspaper, the people could stand a sentence of thirty days.

Georgia Scenes.

Tow-heads slidin' down the hill, An' swingin' on the gate; Daddy gone a-fishin' An' mammy diggin' bait!

There has been a great improvement in the Elberton Gazette, and this is noticeable in every issue. Mr. Gargill seems to be the right man in the right place.

Mistakes Will Happen.

The editor wrote of the temperance banquet that it was "a feast of reason and a flow of soul." But the proof reader let it go as "a feast of raisins and a flow of bowl."

Our friend, Mr. Percival Pollard, of Chicago, is doing brilliant work for that excellent illustrated weekly, Pictorial.

Take a Kodak with You.

An exchange observes that Eugene Field has "taken the lecture platform." What will the other lecturers do for a platform now?

The summer resort is the notion. The breeze with the bathers is free; The girls tip-toe into the ocean And the boys—they are going to sea!

Will N. Harben is looking after his landed interests in North Carolina. When an auctioneer has an interest these days he may consider himself all right.

Forewarned Is Forearmed.
 Now the sun drives his chariot higher; The sunbeams climb the yard; The poet is striking the lyre— Let the fisherman be on his guard!

Texas believes in advertising. The latest from that state is a corpse that rolled over and cursed the coroner.

The woman's suffrage question has greatly disturbed the bachelor editors of Georgia. They are afraid the women are going to vote for them.

Don't Overlook Us.

"Hamlet is dead!" the north exclaims, "Since Booth abideth not." His eagle spirit Atlanta mourns And thunders back: "Great Scott!"

The Billville Banner.

Brother Lyman Abbott says he doesn't believe in the Bible. He doesn't believe in the Bible. He doesn't believe in the Bible. He doesn't believe in the Bible.

This is the season of the year when the strawberry festival for the benefit of the church steeple comes out $60 in debt.

The preacher has placed a self-registering thermometer in a conspicuous place in the meeting house. As a guide to the hearer it fills the bill.

We shot off the legs of six yankees during the war, and now they won't even allow us ten per cent on their pensions. Sometimes we are compelled to lynch a fellow down this way; but we always allow him time to pray; and give him widow six months to pay his funeral expenses.

Seventeen candidates who were disappointed in the gubernatorial business have returned from Washington and are running for bill of Billville. You can't keep a good Georgian down.

AN EARLY EXTRA SESSION.

West Georgia News: Mr. Cleveland breaks the silence, and will call congress early in September. As a stroke of policy under such needed measure of relief it were better to call it the middle of July.

Sparta Ishmaelite: If it be necessary to have a special session the lodge of the case calls for a much earlier date than the middle of September. In affairs of government as in those of individuals, "delays are dangerous."

Macon News: The best interests of the country demand an early extra session. Such would doubtless result in great benefit to the business interests of the country as all would be easier in knowing the exact financial policy to be pursued by the government.

Hawkinsville Dispatch: What this glorious country of ours needs more than all things else, is an early extra session of congress. President Cleveland and Treasurer Carlisle are great statesmen, possessed of much wisdom, but it is very evident that they need a superabundance of help. The strained financial condition of the country is a matter which two men can successfully and satisfactorily handle.

SILVER IN GEORGIA.

Outburst Liberal-Enterprise: Why not call the gold dollar a 104 cents dollar? This would be as near correct as to call the silver dollar a 60 cents dollar.

Brunswick Times-Advertiser: The Atlanta Constitution calls attention to the fact that silver-burdened France is the one section of Europe that is not foundering under the tribulation of depression. The money of a country is never in so good a shape for doing service as when distributed amongst the people.

Americus Times-Recorder: Hard times are on us. Will the democratic congress in extra session give to the country the financial reform it needs and give to the consumer relief from tariff taxation which will put a premium on his labor and make the sweat of his brow collateral for happiness and prosperity? Repeat: Sherman act by the re-monetization of silver.

AN INCOME TAX.

Rockdale Banner: It seems that a belief in a gradual income tax, as a source of revenue and a guard against congestive wealth, is rapidly growing in this country.

Oglethorpe Echo: If the next congress does not pass an income tax act it will be as good as saying to the people of the country, be silent. We have yet to see the paper that does not strongly advocate such legislation.

Statesboro Star: The taxes of the government should be paid by those who reap the most benefit from the government. So a tax on incomes of $100,000 and upwards would be a step in the right direction.

LaGrange Graphic: The people demand that there shall be an income tax. It is nothing but right that the rich and prosperous should bear their proportionate share of the burden of taxation. There is nothing wrong about a fair and just income tax.

The Extra Session.

From The Cincinnati Commercial-Gazette. If an extra session of congress is needed, why not call it June 15th instead of September 15th? It is all nonsense about hot weather in Washington. Congressmen can endure heat and cold as well as the rest of the world along the broad Potomac. Let us have the extra session now.

A Bridge Outlook.

From The Baltimore Manufacturers' Record. Through the south the volume of business transacted during the week has not diminished. The railroad situation looks brighter on all sides.

Richmond Terminal matters appear to be progressing toward a successful conclusion. The receivership proceedings against the Norfolk and Western, which occasioned a little surprise and comment, have been quashed through the prompt payment in trust by that company of the amount claimed by the litigants.

GEORGIA POLITICAL NOTES.

The legislative campaign is now leading the gubernatorial, and candidates are cropping out at a lively rate.

The Albany Herald says that Blount's return to Georgia just before election time will be the occasion for sharpening up talents.

The Irwin World strongly advocates Congressman Black for the United States senate.

The voters of Carroll county say that if there are any more fat offices that Coweta men won't have, they will be glad to take them, and stand ready to catch them on the fly.

It is being whispered around that Editor Reilly, senior editor of The Mercurian, Recorder, may be in the race for governor.

Thus speaks the confident Cleveland Progress: "There is not a great deal said about it, but your Uncle Allen D. Candler, of Hall, can look the affairs of Georgia next term, if he will only say the word."

The Dalton Argus says that in Georgia, whether the office should seek the man, or the man should seek the office, depends just now on which could find the other quickest, and get republicans out and democrats in with least delay.

The Savannah Press speculates as follows: "Will Mr. Blount come home? If so Colonel W. H. Harrison and some more of the Georgia colonels may go to Europe."

The teachers of Houston are taking action in matters pertaining to their best interests, and will make it lively for the legislative candidate who does not consider their dues.

Here is a political prophecy from The Carrollton Times: "It is some time off but The Times rises to remark that politics will be mighty lively in 1894 in this state. It is going to be a lively tilt from governor to ballot."

The Carrollton Times does not know that Carroll county will present a candidate for congress next time, but thinks "it is poor grace for a Columbus editor to announce that it is too early, when the Columbus papers have been booming a Columbus man for the past three months."

The Carrollton Times has this compliment to Hon. H. M. Reid: "The report comes from Atlanta that the friends of Hon. Henry M. Reid will present his name for congressional honors next time in the fifth district. Colonel Reid is one of the ablest and best men the fifth has ever had, and he would do himself honor to nominate and elect him."

SPARKS FROM GEORGIA.

One hundred new houses have been built in Greenville since the destruction of that town by the recent cyclone.

The school teachers of Wilkinson county will make active steps in bringing about a reform in receiving pay for their services.

Warrenton has been a remarkably healthy town for the last eighteen months. During that time, with a population of over two hundred, there has not been a death among the white population.

It is expected that a large number of visitors will be in attendance on the commencement exercises of McDonough institute, which will occur on the 10th, 20th and 21st instant.

Word county farmers are hustlers. The Tifton Gazette tells of one who gave a "log-rolling" one day last week, a house-moving the next and welcomed a seventeen-pound boy at his house on the third.

Americus merchants say that the business of the city holds up remarkably well under the pressure of dull times that pervade the entire country. They all seem to be doing well and are contented with their business. Better times, they say, will come next fall.

Samuel Thorpe, the Savannah murderer, will be hanged in that city on Friday, the 30th, the same day that Jim Lamar will be swung off in the gallows. Both of these men killed their victims on account of 50 cents. It is quite a coincidence. Lamar killed Bird because he refused to loan him 50 cents, while Thorpe put to death Brinson because he had refused to loan him out of 50 cents. Both murders were committed while playing the "skin" game.

TWO JOKES TOLD YESTERDAY.

A gentleman tells the following joke on a jeweler. A young man who was one of the verge of matrimony went to the jeweler and bought a ring and left instructions that in it be engraved the legend "From A. to Z." which, being interpreted, meant from Anthony to Zerkow. To his astonishment, on calling for the ring next day, he found it engraved like an Egyptian obelisk, and on closer examination found that the jeweler had put the whole alphabet "From A. to Z." on it.

He also vouches for the following: Two little boys, being anxious to make an honest penny, made a bucket of lemonade each, and set themselves on a corner to wait for customers. One had a sign over his bucket "5 cents a glass," while the other sign read "2 cents a glass." A stranger passed by, and thinking there was a cut rate lemonade war in progress, decided to save 3 cents by buying a glass from the 2-cent lad.

After drinking a tumblerful, he said, "My little man, why do you sell yours for 2 cents when your rival sells his for 5 cents?" "Oh," said the youngster, "you see after I got mine made the puppy fell into it, and I had to reduce the price."

The gentleman retired into a neighboring alley and lost 2 cents.

GEORGIA PRESS COMMENT.

Eastman Times-Journal: There are more statesmen out of a job in Georgia than we thought existed outside of Johnny Ingalls's ballfield.

Irwin World: All is quiet now, but when the time begins to realize on their promise, "buck politicians" will appear for small contributions. Mark our prediction!

The Pickens County Herald: The people are awakening to the fact that sheep are worth more than dogs and many are clamoring for war in progress, decided to save 3 cents by buying a glass from the 2-cent lad.

After drinking a tumblerful, he said, "My little man, why do you sell yours for 2 cents when your rival sells his for 5 cents?" "Oh," said the youngster, "you see after I got mine made the puppy fell into it, and I had to reduce the price."

The gentleman retired into a neighboring alley and lost 2 cents.

ENOUGH HEATHEN ALREADY.

Sparta Ishmaelite: If it would not be especially distressing to Alexander Russell Webb, Georgia would prefer his location of her Mohammedan colony elsewhere. Georgia doesn't need any Mohammedans at all. She has her full complement of heathen.

Thomasville Times: And now we are to have a colony of Mohammedans in Georgia. They propose to proselyte Christians. Well, well, what is the world coming to? We are missionaries abroad to convert Mohammedans and they are coming here to convert Christians.

REDEEM THE PLEDGES.

Sparta Ishmaelite: The democratic masses intend to hold their leaders to a strict account for any violation of the pledges of the Chicago platform.

Thomaston Times: The pledges made by the democratic party and incorporated into the platform, including the tariff reforms, the financial system and other vital essentials, must be carried out, or a fearful revolution awaits this country.

Reaching New York in Time for the Day's Business.

Atlanta, noon today; New York, noon tomorrow. This is possible only by the well-known vestibuled limited of the Richmond and Danville railroad and Pennsylvania road. The latter is the better car can be asked in the way of schedule or train.

Nothing but the finest Pullman cars are used in making up this elegant train, and the regular car service is being operated in the south (from Atlanta) adds little to the passengers' satisfaction. There are no extra fares charged on the vestibule beside the ticket and the Pullman fares.

This same train, authoritatively, brings the New York papers here at 4.55 a. m. the day after publication. These new schedules have called for many good words from the press of the country, and the approval of the public is shown by their patronage.
